*Astrological Consultant * working with your deep cellular memories*

You do not need to know any astrology to come for a consultation – nothing about planets, signs of the zodiac or any of the other jargon. I will translate and interpret all of it for you, report the results in ‘plain English’ and provide a recording.

My consultation sessions resemble counselling or coaching, but are based upon careful examination of your complex astrological signature, a lens which provides me with a huge amount of ‘inside’ information in advance of our session. It allows me to access the core issues that underlie your personal questions. My methodology is one of depth analysis and, despite the levity, fun and enjoyment, is not ‘off-the-cuff’.

Your astrology chart is a time-stop picture of the sky when you were born. It is a precise mapping of the positions of the sun, moon and planets around you at the time and location of your birth. A mapping for a different time or a different location would not be your natal chart – it would actually describe someone else.

Nobody benefits if I read someone else’s astrology chart to you, so I offer two quite different types of consultations: either I employ very exacting methods to confirm or determine your precise time of birth or I ignore it altogether. One is called the ‘Day Chart’, the other the ‘Timed Chart’. Let me explain:

The Day Chart provides a great deal of useful, practical and insightful information. We would have a single session of about 2 hours discussing some of the principle players on your inner stage – the group of impulses, motives or perhaps compulsions which are completely natural to you, and which may either blend harmoniously or create inner conflict. For example, your mind is one such player; feelings, courage, self-esteem and creativity are others. I frequently identify capabilities and talents or patterns (mental, emotional, and behavioural) which can lead either to misery or to happiness, depending on how you play them. I like to discuss conscious choice and practical, helpful strategies, current challenges and areas of growth.

As this computation excludes time of birth, the consultation loses some of the subtlety and detail of the exactly timed chart. I would talk about your specific inner qualities, but I would not know where they might express themselves in the outer world – in relationships, at home, in career, through health issues, etc. This approach is an ‘in-depth introduction’ and is less of an investment on both our parts. (£100)

The Timed Chart, drawn for the exact time of birth, goes to a much greater depth and provides considerably more detailed information. Here there just isn’t any hiding – everything about you is available. Your correct natal chart includes all your strengths, talents, capabilities, long and short term learning lessons, your purpose and highest potential. It can detail your childhood, parents, siblings, children, friends, lovers, partners, bosses and co-workers and the relationship you are apt to have with each. It contains all the information necessary for serious career, health, relationship, spiritual and values counselling. Furthermore, it can show the challenges you are currently facing, how long they are apt to continue, and a variety of coping strategies.

The Timed Chart requires considerably more astrological precision – the correct time of birth to within 4 minutes. To find it, I would start with the best estimate of your birth time and would apply my original (and as yet unpublished) methods of linking the chart's data with your physical features. This enables me to confirm the accuracy of your reported birth time or to adjust the chart until it fits you like a cosmic mosaic.

This is a time-consuming process, generally involving two contact sessions and usually considerable research time between them. A good set of photographs and a phone/Skype conversation may replace the preliminary session, for work at a distance. If your correct birth chart becomes clear to me easily, the fee would be at the lower end of the price range. (£200 to £300) Sleuthing out a previously unknown time of birth is also possible, but is a longer and therefore more costly process.

Follow-ups, Up-dates and Core Issue sessions can be very helpful for clarification, for reinforcement, for chipping away at big issues, or for discussing current challenges (The 'What's Going On?' session). Some people (or their issues or their current challenges) benefit from repeat sessions to expand upon what was discussed previously or to plunge more deeply into the vast sea of available information. You are welcome to return for further astrological work at any time. (fees to be arranged)

Chart comparison sessions are also available and can be enormously interesting and enlightening. For these I map two or more people's charts onto each other to look at the ins and outs of the relationships between/among them, the impact people have on each other, perhaps the 'sacred contract' between them. This works for all kinds of relationships and for family or business groups. (fees to be arranged)

Astro-Travel Adventures allow you to select your own 'cosmic travel destination'. You decide which part of yourself you would like to explore. Standard tours include: your particular brand of intuitive perception (Jupiter), your happiness, self-esteem, money, your own attraction principle (Venus), your mind and how it ticks (Mercury), and your particular well-spring of courage, confidence, and assertiveness (Mars). A great introduction to astrology and an ideal gift. A 60-minute session - £45.

I look forward to working with you astrologically. Please contact me with any questions you may have.
